Second Quarter 2019

President's Message

Well, I made it through the first quarter without too much difficulty. Let's see if it gets easier with time. We had a great turnout for police week. The ceremony at police HQ was a time of reflection. Families of the fallen had a chance to place a rose on their officer's memorial. To this day, we are loosing too many officers in the line of duty.

The wreath laying and memorial service went well. The theme of "safety" was my call. I wanted to point out that everyone has a camera. Be careful of that. I also felt that we sometimes got caught up in the fight and couldn't let 'this one' get away. I tried to convey that there's always tomorrow. I finished with a story about going beyond the basics. About, after a near tragic rollover motor vehicle crash, an officer, seeing a distraught mother holding her young child, offered an assuring hug stating," you're ok, your baby's ok. The car did its job."

We've also lost some of our retired friends these past months. They will be missed. We recently received information about the WTC/911 compensation fund. If you were at the pentagon and spent a total of 4 hours there, please register @ www.cdc.gov/wtc/apply.html.

Thank you for having confidence in me and my team to continue to support you.

Sincerely, Jeremy

Deputies Honored for Outstanding Service

By Amy Bertsch

This spring six deputies received awards for their outstanding service. Congratulations to all!

On March 13, American Legion Alexandria Post 24 presented Master Deputy Jeffery Hunter (upper left) with its Law Enforcement Officer of the Year award in recognition of his exceptional service and commitment to his fellow deputies. A certified general, firearms and CIT instructor, Deputy Hunter uses his expertise and experience to help newer deputies advance their own skills and knowledge. While serving civil process as part of his regular duties, he is also quick to respond and aid police officers who may need assistance during a call. Deputy Hunter served for many years as a member of the award-

On May 7, Deputy Steven Hand, Deputy Ashley Battle and Deputy Eloy Reyes (upper left) received Valor Awards for their actions that prevented an inmate from taking her own life. All three deputies received life-saving awards for their vigilance, fast response, and critical thinking that combined, kept an inmate experiencing a mental health crisis from seriously harming herself. Deputy Hand had initially observed the inmate crying during recreation. He alerted the necessary staff and then escorted her for evaluation. Later after she was placed in a cell where she was more closely monitored, Deputies Battle and Reyes kept a close watch on her and responded promptly whenever they saw anything unusual. When the inmate attempted to strangle herself, both deputies intervened and were able to rescue her before she suffered a life-threatening injury.

Second Quarter 7 2019

On May 16, the Alexandria Bar Association surprised Master Deputy George Gray (lower left) by presenting him with the 2018-2019 Liberty Bell Award at their annual dinner. G. Christopher Wright, president of the Alexandria Bar Association, expressed the group's appreciation for Deputy Gray's professional demeanor, both at the screening post and in courtrooms. Attorneys appreciate how he always represents the Sheriff's Office in a positive manner and they enjoy their interactions with him. Deputy Gray has served at the Alexandria Courthouse for 20 years.

Then on June 5, the Alexandria Crisis Intervention Team Steering Committee honored Deputy William Summers (lower right) as the CIT Deputy of the Year for his exceptional work in the jail's Critical Care Mental Health Unit. According to Captain Doug Woehlke, Deputy Summers has "very good boundaries and control, yet he remains flexible and uses good judgment when accommodating special needs of the inmates in the unit. He is sensitive and respectful of the individuals he serves, despite the unusual and disruptive behaviors that he sometimes must manage." He added that Deputy Summers is quick to notice changes in a person's behavior and can recognize the underlying symptoms that explain behaviors when individuals sometimes do act out. Deputy Summers responds in an effective and supportive way that deescalates most situations and is an extremely valuable CIT member.

Alexandria Fire Chief Robert Dubé has retired. In honor of his retirement there was a celebration at Alexandria Fire Department Headquarters on June 28, 2019. We thank him for his support and wish him a long, happy and healthy retirement.

Inmates Recognized for Educational and Training Achievements By Amy Bertsch

The Sheriff's Office hosted a graduation ceremony this spring to recognize the achievements of more than 30 inmates in several educational and professional development programs, including two new initiatives - Inside-Out and flagger training.

The Honorable Donald M. Haddock, Jr., Alexandria General District Court Judge, delivered the keynote address before inmates were recognized for their accomplishments. Judge Haddock told the honorees that they should be proud of themselves for making the most of their time, but reminded everyone that no one is "stuck" with what they have. Rather, he urged them to pursue new opportunities and find new stages in their life. He also encouraged all in attendance to find similarities and make connections with people of different backgrounds and experiences.

Staff then presented certificates to the honorees, including some who were recognized for successfully completing more than one program. Two inmates received certificates of achievement for passing their General Educational Development (GED) examinations. Both wore caps and gowns and were applauded by staff, other inmates and family members attending the ceremony.

Six wearing bright orange safety vests were recognized for receiving their American Traffic Safety Services Association certification as work zone flaggers. Deputy Todd Stubblefield conducts the new flagger training, another program that helps inmates expand their knowledge and develop skills that will aid them after their release. With this certification, ex-offenders can increase their opportunities for employment and can more effectively pursue work in the road safety industry.

Thirteen inmates wore aprons and chef hats as they were honored for earning their ServSafe® Food Protection Manager Certification. This locally and nationally recognized certification will make them more competitive candidates for restaurant and food service job positions after they return to the community.

In partnership with Alexandria Probation and Parole District #36, the Sheriff's Office also honored seven inmates for completing Thinking for a Change (T4C) curriculum. T4C is an integrated behavioral change program that includes cognitive restructuring and social skills development. A key part of the Virginia Department of Corrections Re-entry Program, T4C is structured to give offenders the tools and skills needed to make better decisions when faced with some of life's every day challenges.

Finally, 16 classmates - nine inmates and seven Virginia Theological Seminary (VTS) students - received certificates for completing a course in the Inside-Out Prison Exchange Program, the first time such a program has been offered in Alexandria. Two classmates, one an "inside" student from the detention center and one an "outside" student from VTS, addressed the audience, as did their professor, the Reverend Leah Gaskin Fitchue, Ed.D., and other VTS faculty members. Inside-Out focuses on social change through transformative education and according to Dr. Fitchue, it is "based on the simple hypothesis that incarcerated students and traditional students might mutually benefit from studying crime, justice, and related social issues together as peers within a correctional facility context."

Eight deputy sheriffs graduated from Session 140 of the Northern Virginia Criminal Justice Training Academy in a June 19 ceremony at George Mason University.
